ISSUE 30 / 2016

Batman vs Superman: Dawn of Justice. We don't understand why there are a couple of superheroes slugging it out like a wrestling bout, with Wonder Woman watching disapprovingly. However, we are looking forward to making sense of it all very soon at the local multiplex.

We've got a superhero of our own Free Car Mag, or possibly Margaret, but we are too frightened to call her that. Well she's more than qualified to tell other superheroes and even super villains what to drive.

There is still time to win yourself a brilliant Pulsar watch. All you have to do is sign up to get notification of the latest issue. If you have already signed up, then you are already in with a chance. Tell all your friends and family, because we don't spam you with nonsense, or pass your details on. We are good like that.

We are also doing very well at the moment. Shortlisted as Consumer Magazine and Editor of the Year in the Newspress Awards after only being around for a year, it has taken a real superhuman effort I can tell you. However, we did get the Classic Car award based on one of our features, which was really super.

SUPER BAT WONDER STUFF

*BATMAN VS SUPERMAN: DAWN OF JUSTICE HAS THREE SUPERHEROES AND THEIR EVERYDAY ALTER
EGOS PLUS LOIS LANE AND AN EVIL VILLAIN CALLED
LEX. WE TRY AND EXPLAIN
WHAT'S GOING ON.*

SUPERMAN/CLARK KENT

An orphan from the planet Krypton, forever an alien on his adopted home, Earth, Superman has become the world's most powerful and iconic Super Hero. Then as Metropolis reporter Clark Kent, Superman tracks the world's crises from the perfect vantage point: at the centre of the global news organization The Daily Planet. Henry Cavill easily fills the tight tights of the Man of Steel. It is the second time that he has played the part of Superman. Indeed, Man of Steel wasn't half bad.

BATMAN/ BRUCE WAYNE

Driven by the haunting vision of his parents' brutal slaying, the orphaned young billionaire Bruce Wayne devoted his life to becoming the world's greatest weapon against crime: Batman. To throw his enemies off the scent of his secret identity as Batman, Bruce Wayne plays the public part of a billionaire playboy that oversees Wayne Industries while indulging in the finer things in life. The Caped Crusader is played by Oscar winner Ben Affleck who has been a controversial choice for the simple reason that he is not Christian Bale. We are sure he will prove everyone wrong and not be a Kilmer or Clooney.

LEX LUTHOR

Bearing the deadly combination of a brilliant mind and an unharnessed ego, Lex Luthor has set his sights on the one he views as the only real threat to his own power: Superman. While not a physical match for the Man of Steel, Luthor is his intellectual superior, and perceives the alien being as the greatest risk to—rather than a purported savior of—mankind. With the full force of his multinational company LexCorp's resources behind him, he will stop at nothing to prevent Superman's interference in his plans, or to eradicate the icon's standing among mankind in the process. So is Jesse Eisenberg reprising his role in The Social Network? It would be hard to be colder or more ruthless, perfect for old Lex.

LOIS LANE

A fearless and forthright Pulitzer Prizing-winning journalist reporting for Metropolis's Daily Planet, Lois Lane repeatedly risks life and limb to get her story—all while keeping the story of a lifetime to herself: the identity of Superman. Amy Adams, five time Oscar nominee, is back again as a no-nonsense Lois.

WONDER WOMAN/DIANA PRINCE

The world's first and foremost female Super Hero, Wonder Woman at once embodies the unrivaled force and supreme grace of a born warrior, and the genuine compassion and understanding of a true humanitarian. The immortal Amazonian Princess Diana keeps her eyes and ears open for intrigue as the beautiful and mysterious antiquities dealer, Diana Prince. Played by Gal Gadot who made her mark in the Fast & Furious franchise. The Israeli model spent time in the army as a kick ass superhero in real life.

SUPER HERO RIDES

Free Car Mag, our very own office superheroine picks the motors most suited to Batman, Superman, Lex Luther, Lois Lane and Wonder Woman.

Ferrari GTC4Lusso

Lois Lane's go anywhere, four seat supercar.

Investigative journalists that are as brilliant as Lois need a supercar to get them to the story on time. Not only that, four wheel drive also means that she will be able to go absolutely anywhere, within reason.

The GTC4Lusso features the latest evolution of the passenger display which Lois will find useful if she swaps seats. The 8.8" colour full HD and Full Touch screen not only displays the car's performance statistics and status as its predecessor did, but can also be used to interact with its onboard system. For instance, the passenger display can be used to select music to play even when sat-nav information is being displayed on the main central screen.

It is also possible to select a new Point of Interest (POI), such as a meeting with Lex Luthor, and send it directly to the sat-nav even when the latter has already been set. The new Lex POI will then automatically be added to the route.

McLaren 570GT

Wonder Woman's wonderfully practical Hypercar.

The thing is that Wonder Woman does have quite a lot of baggage, a bit like Batman. She needs a change of clothing to spin into, a sword, shield and the golden lasso thing.

It's a good job then that the 570GT is the most practical model ever launched by McLaren Automotive, targeted towards longer journeys and weekends away. The front luggage area remains unchanged from the Coupé, providing 150 litres of stowage, while a further 220 litres of space is available behind the seats on the leather-lined Touring Deck. This additional space is accessed via the side opening Glass Hatch bringing the total storage space for the 570GT to 370 litres.

Coming from the Amazon she will appreciate the standard fixed glass Panoramic Roof and she can regulate and maintain the temperature at tropical in the cabin with an enhanced dual-zone air conditioning system. The system allows fully automatic and independent settings for passenger and driver. A two-stage Automatic function – 'Auto' and 'Auto Lo' – allows a desired temperature to be obtained, with the latter setting limiting the speed of the fans to minimise fan noise within the cabin.

Porsche 911R and the Singer

Lex Luther's twins of evil Porsche pairing is truly terrifying and epically cool.

He's only supposed to have one supercar, but because he is a bad person, Lex breaks the rules and doesn't worry about the consequences.

Lex will love the fact that the 911 is a wolf in sheep's clothing, which means a classic 911 look with GT motor racing technology. All the lightweight components of the body and the complete chassis originate from the 911 GT3. However, with a view to road use, the body does not have the fixed rear wing familiar with that model. Instead, a retractable rear spoiler shared with the Carrera models and a bespoke aerodynamic diffuser beneath the rear underbody provides the necessary downforce.

Lex can also take a stage further with the Retro looks and awesome performance of the Singer. Singer's philosophy – creating one-of-a-kind masterpieces to each customer's desires within perfectly optimized air-cooled Porsche 911s – continues to move forward with each new bespoke restoration. With limited availability and an 8-10 month restoration cycle, Lex would love to jump the queue by wiping out those in front of him. Oh and the money that a Singer costs is absolutely no issue for a Trillionaire like loveable Lex.

Alpina B7

Superman can take it fairly easy in his executive saloon, with a huge supercar twist.

The mere fact that Superman can fly means that owning a car is irrelevant. Especially as he has vertical take off and landing, so doesn't even need a runway, or a parking space. Just sometimes though he must want to kick back and read a paper, like the Daily Planet. Oh and when he is Clark Kent, getting somewhere super quick and not being noticed would mean that the super subtle Alpina B7 would be perfect.

It might look like a BMW 5 Series, but as Superman's X-ray vision would soon reveal what lies beneath. With an ALPINA-optimised 4.4 litre V8 delivering a remarkable 600 hp, the new B7 Bi-Turbo will be the most powerful and most luxurious model in the bespoke vehicle manufacturer's range.

Inside, the new B7 Bi-Turbo can be specified with an almost limitless range of options. Standard equipment on UK-market cars includes high-end Nappa leather, a leather-covered instrument panel, ceramic applications on selected control elements, soft close doors, a full-colour Head-Up Display and a rear view camera.

The unique ALPINA styling of the exterior can be enriched by ALPINA's iconic decal sets along the sides and on the front spoiler, while the interior of each car is finished with a unique, numbered production plaque on the centre console. Superman's might just have an 'S' on it.

Morgan EV3

Batman goes electric in the coolest, greenest, sportscar ever.

For too long Batman has been driving around in great big loud, stupid vehicles that the baddies can hear coming. The Morgan EV3 now means that he can sneak up on the Joker and sort him out. Quietly.

Morgan's point is that the EV3 looks at the world of zero emissions motoring from an entirely different perspective, what if an all-electric vehicle was bespoke, hand crafted and exhilarating to drive? The EV3 embraces new technology, delivers responsible driving excitement and continues to celebrate traditional British craftsmanship.

Lightweight agility is complemented by performance figures that challenge those of the petrol 3 Wheeler. Encased within the tubular space frame chassis is a 20KWh Lithium Battery and a liquid cooled 46kW motor driving the rear wheel. Bruce Wayne will love all that technical stuff that Wayne Industries can exploit. Not only that the EV3 is the first Morgan vehicle to utilise composite carbon panels in its body construction. The carbon bonnet, tonneau cover and side pods are made in the UK, and much like the remaining aluminium panels, are hand worked over an ash wood frame. Taking inspiration from 1930's aero-engine race cars and classic motorcycles making Batman feel right at home as his D.O.B. is 1939www

Electric Dream is now a Reality

Here is how to get started in the car business with a bright idea.

4 EV has already sold hundreds of cables to customers across the UK and Europe, with plans in place to set up sites in Holland, India, China and the USA.

The business came about after founder and electric car owner Darren Pegram discovered there were very few places he could buy additional cables to charge his BMW i3 at a competitive price, so decided to begin importing cables himself and selling them online.

The growth in electric vehicle ownership and investment in the sector, especially in the North East, Darren believes his site www.4ev.co.uk has the potential to be his most successful start-up yet.

"My background isn't in electric vehicles but in some ways I think that is an advantage – I'm just an ordinary person who saw a gap in the market and a chance to use my skills to plug that gap. My customers are just like me – electric vehicle owners looking for a high quality product but without paying over the odds.

"The beauty of e-commerce is you're not tied down by geography – I can reach customers all over the world and eventually, that is my aim."

And with an expected turnover of around £150,000 in its first year, it seems Darren's ambitious plans may not be far from reach.

He said: "There is a developing trend for electric vehicles and I wanted to be part of that. My aim is for 4EV to be the number one alternative to manufacturer made electric vehicle cables and I definitely think that is achievable."

BMW Z4 vs AUDI TT

It's spring so a convertible sports car would be a fun car to drive, so let's take a look at two of the most popular Germans.

WHY BUY?

BMW is advertised as the ultimate driving machine and they are. Z4 comes with great engines and handling plus the styling still grabs the attention. The TT is also a great drive and even more than that there is a superb attention to detail and quality, especially in the cockpit.

WHICH MODELS?

The Z4 arrived in 2003 and from 2006 it was uprated with revised engines and styling and in 2009 a combined hard/soft top. So 2006-08s are good value. The TT Roadster has been around for some time but from 2007 it was restyled to look a lot sharper and became more of a sports car.

ARE THEY RELIABLE?

Warranty Direct's figures highlight that it is the electrics that give the most grief and mechanically there isn't much to worry about. The TT is in a similar situation and what buyers must do is make sure there is a full service history and if there are doubts plug into a diagnostic system.

HOW MUCH DO THEY COST?

There are several engine options with the Z4 and prices start at around £3000 rising to just over £10,000 for the better examples. The Audi TT can be bought for just under £6000 now with a higher mileage and the top money is over £25,000 from a dealer.

SUM UP

They are the same but subtly different. Many think the Z4 more masculine, but the TT easily wins in the style stakes.
